To the Editor of the Eagle : In your last issue you take the ground that mebody in this community should be hung without judge or jury, because some horses state further that since the law is not enforced against thieves that the law is bad and hould be repealed, or would not the Beacon say that it deprives a man of his rights for the law to say a man must not steal borses? I see by the Chicago papers that about one undred murders have been committed in blicago the past year, and yet but one man uffered the penalty of the law. Now is not the law in Illinois a bad law that prescribes a ounishment for murder? The theory now-adays, you know is, that a law that is not enforced is a bad law?
